

VIRTUAL SEMINAR

CLINICAL CASE :

A 22-year-old pregnant woman (G2P1) at 38-week gestational age, was brought by EMS due to ingestion of 100cc of a pesticide 2 hours ago. She was alert with normal vital signs and unremarkable physical examinations. Two hours later, a girl with 9-10 Apgar score was delivered by cesarean section. She received 2 units of PRBC due to post-partum hemorrhage. She also underwent another therapeutic intervention, along with two times red-blood-cell exchange transfusion for her newborn. A mild raised creatinine serum level was occurred. Both of the patients were well on the 7th day and at one-year follow-up.
