Transforming Healthcare with AI innovation: An Introduction to Heidi Health

This presentation will address the challenges in clinical documentation, focusing on issues such as time constraints, accuracy, and maintaining patient interaction. It will explore the future of AI in healthcare, discussing its potential evolution in clinical settings over the next couple years.

An introduction to Heidi Health, an AI-enabled ambient scribe, will demonstrate how it assists clinicians in recording patient visits, customising notes, and generating necessary documents. The presentation will also showcase Heidi's adaptability to individual user styles and its support for customisable documentation and templates. Finally, the importance of compliance and safety in using AI technology in healthcare will be discussed.
